

ASIMS

The American Society for Irish Medieval Studies
An Cumann Meiriceánach um Léann na Meánaoise Éireannaí

The Barry Prize for Best Graduate Paper

The American Society of Irish Medieval Studies (ASIMS) seeks nominations for the Barry Prize for Best Graduate paper.

Named in honor of Professor Terry Barry, TCD, in recognition of his lifelong commitment to graduate student scholarship, the ASIMS Barry Prize is an annual prize awarded for the best conference paper (at any academic conference) on a subject of relevance to Irish Medieval Studies delivered by a graduate student.

More details about the prize can be found here:

<https://www.asims.org>

Nominations will be accepted immediately, and submissions should be received by April 15th, 2017.

Self-Nominations are Welcome.